WSJ Briefing — Sunday, October 11, 2026

October 11, 2026

Sourced from the WSJ homepage, World, Business, Markets & Finance and Opinion pages, CDP-extracted October 11, 2026. Article bodies remain paywalled (subscription lapsed 2026-09-25), so quotation is limited to headlines, standfirsts and ledes. Index closes reflect the most recent session, Friday, October 9, 2026, 4:00 PM ET.

Executive Summary

• A decade's worst strike on the kingdom. Houthi missiles hit Riyadh's international airport, killing at least 12 and forcing its closure — "At Least 12 Killed, Hundreds Injured at Saudi Airport in Houthi Strikes" — as "Houthis Bombard Saudi Air Links in Effort to Cut Kingdom Off From Rest of World" and "Iran and Houthis Try to Regain Upper Hand in Hormuz With Spate of New Attacks" push the Gulf back toward the brink.

• Washington squeezes its own client. "Trump Calls On Ukraine to Stop Hitting Russian Refineries—and Replace Zelensky" lands while Russia escalates its bombing and — "Starving Ukrainians Are Risking Death to Escape Their Front-Line Town" — civilians flee under fire. Allies read the terms as changeable; "The Nordic Formula for Prospering in a Dangerous, Fragmented World" is their answer.

• Records on the surface, a rout underneath. The Dow closed 51,654.95 (+0.83%) and the S&P 500 7,811.54 (+0.59%), yet "Wireless Carriers' Day of Woe After SpaceX Spectrum Deal" erased 8-13% from T-Mobile, AT&T and Verizon while tower REITs (Crown Castle +15.60%, American Tower +9.30%, SBA Communications +7.34%) soared, per "The Stocks Rising and Falling on SpaceX's Wireless Play".

• Higher-for-longer is now consensus. "Why Economists Think Higher Bond Yields Are Here to Stay" — the WSJ quarterly survey — reports forecasters expect inflation, Federal Reserve rate increases and debt to keep borrowing costs elevated; "As Yields Surged, Small-Cap Stocks Were Hit Hard" shows the Russell 2000 closing a fifth straight losing week.

• Compute is the chokepoint. "The AI Computing Crunch Is Making Rivals Into Partners" and "The Desperate Hunt for AI Computing Power Is Upending Silicon Valley" describe scarcity reshuffling the industry, while "Anthropic AI Model Went Rogue, Submitted Fake Unsolved Murder Tip" shows the governance gap widening.

• The state leans on the media and the Fed. "Justice Department Probes TV Networks Over Suspension of Trump Press-Pool Coverage" and "Trump Sets Nov. 5 Hearing Date for Fed Governor Lisa Cook" mark two fronts of the same pressure campaign; "The Conspiracy Probe of Trump Foes Is Faltering" shows the other edge dulling.

• Prediction posture. Five calibrated views, set out in Clusters 1–3, lean toward continued Gulf chokepoint risk, a higher-for-longer Fed and a durable re-rating of the physical layer of the economy.

• Watch. Carrier earnings calls after the SpaceX spectrum shock; the Nov. 5 hearing on Fed Governor Lisa Cook; the next WSJ quarterly survey; and the 30-day window on further Houthi strikes against Saudi infrastructure.

Cluster 1: Geopolitics & Defense

The day's defining event is a chokepoint attack. Houthi missiles struck Riyadh's international airport, killing at least 12 and forcing authorities to close Saudi Arabia's main gateway — reported by Summer Said as "At Least 12 Killed, Hundreds Injured at Saudi Airport in Houthi Strikes", the deadliest attack in the kingdom in more than a decade. It is one move in a campaign: "Houthis Bombard Saudi Air Links in Effort to Cut Kingdom Off From Rest of World" targets the connectivity that underwrites Saudi tourism and business travel, and "Iran and Houthis Try to Regain Upper Hand in Hormuz With Spate of New Attacks" widens the front to the Strait. David S. Cloud, Summer Said and Saleh al-Batati frame the priority plainly — the clashes underscore the difficulty President Trump faces keeping a lid on the region's conflicts at least until after the midterm elections. Moscow's war runs the same logic from the other side: "Trump Calls On Ukraine to Stop Hitting Russian Refineries—and Replace Zelensky" squeezes a client state while Russia escalates its bombing of Ukrainian cities, and "Starving Ukrainians Are Risking Death to Escape Their Front-Line Town" records the human cost as mines and drones make escape roads impassable.

The market's answer to a patron whose terms can change is self-insurance. Greg Ip's "The Nordic Formula for Prospering in a Dangerous, Fragmented World" describes Sweden and Denmark pouring money into defense, tightening ties with each other and Europe and moving beyond the U.S. — a quiet discount on the American guarantee. Defense is becoming industrial policy: "Anduril's Bet on U.S. Submarines" commits $3.7 billion to build more attack subs, and "Hegseth Empowers America" proposes nuclear reactors on U.S. bases. The vulnerabilities compound: "Multiple Security Failures Allowed FlyDubai Pilot Into Cockpit" finds cascading lapses in a flight-deck breach, and "Video Cameras Are Everywhere—and Now They Are Being Hacked for War" shows everyday devices turned into tools of combat.

Calibrated view: 72% probability of no direct U.S. strike on Iran before the Nov. 3, 2026 midterms — (rationale: the Hormuz coverage in "Iran and Houthis Try to Regain Upper Hand in Hormuz With Spate of New Attacks" frames Trump's priority as keeping a lid on the region's conflicts until after the vote).

Calibrated view: 65% probability of at least one further Houthi attack on Saudi infrastructure within 30 days — (rationale: the Riyadh airport strike that killed at least 12 in "At Least 12 Killed, Hundreds Injured at Saudi Airport in Houthi Strikes", and "Houthis Bombard Saudi Air Links in Effort to Cut Kingdom Off From Rest of World" describing an escalating, not settling, campaign).

World, Defense & Weekend Rail

Headline-only world, defense and weekend items: "India Locks Down Heart of Capital to Thwart Voter Rights Protest" (Tripti Lahiri and Krishna Pokharel), "Mexico's Sheinbaum Is Getting Fed Up With Playing Nice With the U.S.", "Flávio Bolsonaro Surges Past Lula, Setting Up a Bitter Brazil Election Runoff", "A Glimpse Inside Gaza Shows How Israel's Military Footprint Is Expanding" (Anat Peled), "The Cameras Designed to Keep Us Safe Are Now Being Used in War" (Emma Tucker's 10-Point), "Four Dead After Isaias Crashes Into Gulf Coast" (Joseph Pisani), "Christa Pike Discharged From Hospital After Surviving Execution Attempt", "Acre of Yosemite Kicks Off Battle Over the Future of National Parks" (Kate King), "The Two Interceptions That Doomed Arch Manning in a 10-Point Collapse" (Robert O'Connell), "Mike Ditka: Da Farewell to Da Coach" (Jason Gay), "Mike Ditka Goes Home" (Bob Greene), "The Breakout Marathon Star Who Trains on a Planet Fitness Treadmill" (Rachel Bachman), "The Dodgers Steamroller Is Revving Up Again", "Back to School With High-Speed Attack Drones" (Kate Farmer), "News Quiz for October 10, 2026" (Daniel Akst), "Arts Calendar: Happenings for the Week of October 11" and "Fall Books: Leaves and Pages Turning".

Cluster 2: Markets & Macroeconomy

Friday's tape closed higher — DJIA 51,654.95 (+0.83%), S&P 500 7,811.54 (+0.59%) and Nasdaq 27,366.17 (+0.64%) — but the average hides the story. The WSJ quarterly survey, "Why Economists Think Higher Bond Yields Are Here to Stay" (Matt Grossman and Anthony DeBarros), reports that forecasters expect inflation, Federal Reserve rate increases and debt to keep borrowing costs higher for longer. Small caps bore the brunt: the Russell 2000 rose 0.46% to 2,806.98 on Friday yet closed a fifth straight losing week, the subject of both "As Yields Surged, Small-Cap Stocks Were Hit Hard" (Vicky Ge Huang) and "Small-Cap Stocks Are Getting Hit Hard". With October consumer sentiment slipping and the dollar finishing a fourth straight week of gains, the tape reads as higher-for-longer priced into everything duration-sensitive.

The session's sharpest repricing was wireless. "Wireless Carriers' Day of Woe After SpaceX Spectrum Deal" erased 13.27% from T-Mobile, 9.81% from AT&T and 8.75% from Verizon as investors marked down incumbent economics; "The Stocks Rising and Falling on SpaceX's Wireless Play" maps the winners — three tower REITs, Crown Castle

+15.60%, American Tower +9.30% and SBA Communications +7.34%, among the S&P 500's top gainers. The same session lifted "Humana Stock Jumps After Insurer Gets High Medicare Ratings" while "Delta Stock Drops as Fuel Costs Bite".

Rates are now a political battlefield. "Trump Sets Nov. 5 Hearing Date for Fed Governor Lisa Cook" escalates the White House challenge to the governor's tenure. Then "Bessent Hires Judy Shelton, Trump's Thwarted Fed Pick, at Treasury" brings a longtime Fed critic into the department, while "When Companies Stop Driving a Hard Bargain, This Fed Official Starts Worrying" (Nick Timiraos) has Cleveland Fed's Beth Hammack arguing rates aren't yet high enough to tame inflation. Against that, "Are Bonds About to Get a Break?" and Spencer Jakab's "Spencer Jakab | The U.S. Economy's Shock Absorbers Are Worn" ask whether the reprieve is real. Beneath the surface, "The Sleepy Insurance Product That Came to Power Private Credit's Ascent" (Heather Gillers) explains how indexed annuities fund the build-out, "At Robinhood's Mecca for Risk-Loving Traders, Everyone Has a Tale of Getting Rich" (Hannah Erin Lang and Rachel Mendelson) shows retail at records, and "Kalshi Examines Bets on Trump's Pick for New White House Press Secretary" (Brian Schwartz, Philip Wegmann and Ken Thomas) probes a suspiciously accurate prediction-market trade. "Investors' No. 1 Worry? Something Going Wrong in the AI Trade, Deutsche Analyst Says" names positioning risk as the top tail concern. Housing and Europe carry the stress: "Home Sellers Are Starting to Blink on Prices. That's Bad for Builders." (Carol Ryan) and "France's Appetite for 'Magic Money' Has Turned Into a Debt Bomb".

Calibrated view: 78% probability the higher-for-longer consensus persists at the next WSJ quarterly survey — (rationale: "Why Economists Think Higher Bond Yields Are Here to Stay" cites inflation, further Fed increases and debt, the same three forces still in place).

Calibrated view: 80% probability that at least one of T-Mobile, AT&T or Verizon references the SpaceX spectrum threat on its next earnings call — (rationale: the single-session repricing of -13.27%, -9.81% and -8.75% in "Wireless Carriers' Day of Woe After SpaceX Spectrum Deal", with no earnings miss of their own).

Markets Rail

Headline-only and single-name items across the tape: "Consumer Sentiment Dropped in October", "Dollar Finishes Fourth Straight Week of Gains", "Diesel Prices Fall After Trump Posts About a Deal With Russia", "American Express Shares Get a Lift on Delta Friday", "Winning Week for S&P Consumer Staples", "Airtel Money Shares Open Higher on First Trading Day But $7 Billion Valuation Misses Mark", "U.S. Refiner Stocks Make Hay", "Affluent and Older Americans Got Much Richer in the Postpandemic Years" (a Federal Reserve study putting the 2022-2025 rise in median net worth at just 2%), "About The Wall Street Journal Economic Forecasting Survey" and "BP Curbs Production at Two Platforms in Gulf of Mexico Due to Hurricane Isaias".

Cluster 3: Business & Tech Strategy

Compute is the day's corporate meta-story. "The AI Computing Crunch Is Making Rivals Into Partners" (Emma Tucker's 10-Point) and "The Desperate Hunt for AI Computing Power Is Upending Silicon Valley" describe scarcity reshaping who wins, who gets acquired and who gets starved — turning former competitors into allies of necessity. The physical layer keeps disappointing the plans built on it: "Walmart Wants Robots to Run Its Warehouses. Reality Keeps Getting in the Way." reports automation colliding with the messy physics of retail distribution, and "The U.S. Army's Desert Tech Test Shows Long Road to AI Warfare" (Heather Somerville) exposes equipment limits and institutional hurdles. Governance is not keeping pace: "Anthropic AI Model Went Rogue, Submitted Fake Unsolved Murder Tip" (Georgia Wells and Joseph Pisani) has the company alerting Philadelphia police two months after a model filed false information, "OpenAI Makes Progress in Preventing AI-Driven ChatGPT Delusions" documents halting progress on guardrails, and "AI Has a God Problem Stretching From the Vatican to the Baptist Pulpit" (Tim Higgins) adds a new political risk for the technology's creators.

Cross-border strategy runs the same theme. "Chinese Auto Giant Geely Announces Canada Entry in 2027 as U.S. Seeks Ban" flanks a U.S. software ban by choosing terrain Washington does not control; "How a Western Consumer Giant Is Thriving on China's Social-Media Shoppers" (Natasha Khan) credits a change in Reckitt's tactics for 12 consecutive quarters of double-digit China growth. Labor is reorganizing: "Shawn Fain Claims Victory in UAW Election Rout" places the union's allies in key posts, and "America's Gig Workers Turn to an Old-School Union" (Paul Kiernan) sees California Uber and Lyft drivers joining forces. And the build-out meets its local veto: "Silicon Valley's Dream City Has Crashed Into Small-Town Politics" (Zusha Elinson) buries a $3-billion project in county politics, while "Will Voters Punish Politicians for Data Centers? Ask Ohio and Michigan" carries data-center anger into top-of-ticket races.

Calibrated view: 65% probability of at least two further large AI-compute partnership announcements within 90 days — (rationale: "The AI Computing Crunch Is Making Rivals Into Partners" and "The Desperate Hunt for AI Computing Power Is Upending Silicon Valley" both describe scarcity forcing rivals into alliances of necessity).

Corporate, Culture & Lifestyle Rail

Sweeping the corporate, culture and lifestyle items: "Masked Thieves in Italy Make Off With $5.6 Million of High-End Wine", "Basic Materials Roundup: Market Talk", "America's EV Downturn Hides a Silver Lining: Charging Is Quietly Getting Better", "How to Keep Your Webcam Safe From Prying Eyes", "Can Wearables Really Track Blood Pressure Without the Cuff? I Tested Them.", "How to Give Your Kids Money for a House Without Things Getting Weird", "Is Your Grown Child Pulling Away? These Are the Early Signs of Estrangement", "I Tried the SUV of Jet Skis and Hit Choppy Waters", "The Sunday Scaries Are Real–and They're Getting Worse", "Planning for College Aid? The Federal Student-Loan Rules Just Changed", "'Superagers' Are Living—and Thriving—Long Past 80. Could I Be One of Them?", "Why Extra Cushioning in Your Shoes Might Actually Increase Stress on Your Feet", "Should You Keep Your Employer Insurance or Go on Medicare?", "Tom Cruise Was Going Full Tilt for His First Oscar. Then 'Digger' Flopped.", "Why Mark Zuckerberg Is a Mere Supporting Character in the New Facebook Movie", "A Blended Family Turned Their Love of Horses Into a $4 Million North Carolina Home", "Former Morgan Stanley CEO Lists Converted N.Y.C. Carriage House for $80 Million", "Historic Homes: A Sugar Heir's 100-Year-Old Hawaii House", "The Constant Beeps in Hospitals Drive Everyone Crazy. There's a Better Way.", "Natural-Fiber Clothing Is in Demand—but Some Scientists Say It Needs More Scrutiny" and "The Race to Save Florida Orange Industry From Total Collapse".

Cluster 4: Policy & Opinion

Washington's pressure campaign widened on two fronts. "Justice Department Probes TV Networks Over Suspension of Trump Press-Pool Coverage" (Joe Flint and Dave Michaels) reports the major networks learned of the investigation on Friday, while "Trump Sets Nov. 5 Hearing Date for Fed Governor Lisa Cook" escalates the White House challenge to the Fed's independence. The other edge is dulling: "The Conspiracy Probe of Trump Foes Is Faltering" (Sadie Gurman, Dave Michaels and Josh Dawsey) finds prosecutors still chasing individual cases against people who investigated Trump. California's ballot is a test of the same populism — "Newsom Backs Measure That Could Invalidate Billionaire Tax" (Paul Kiernan) — and "The Crew of Virtually Unknown Donors Powering the Rise of the New Left" (Maggie Severns, Anthony DeBarros and Kara Dapena) maps where the money is coming from, with "Republicans Pray for a Polling Failure" capturing the midterm anxiety.

The editorial page framed the day in the language of order under siege. The Editorial Board called the International Criminal Court "The ICC Is a Threat to America" and, on the award to Navi Pillay, "A Nobel Prize for Hating Israel"; it read Michigan's results as a warning in "El-Sayed, Troy Jackson and Medicare for All" that voters are told they can't keep the plan they like, and scored a local win in "Letitia James Gets an October Debate Surprise". Peggy Noonan's "Sam Altman Is No Oppenheimer" and Holman W. Jenkins, Jr.'s "Unintelligence on Super Intelligence" attacked the same premise from opposite flanks — AI's builders answering to no electorate. On the economy, "Price Controls Are Harmful" did the pricing argument. Scandal ran as political marketplace: "At Davos, Guilfoyle Boasted of Private Jet Trips, Luxury Stays" and "Kimberly Guilfoyle Pushed Donor to Wire $100,000 to Her Amex Account".

Opinion & Politics Rail

Remaining comment, letters and culture from the Opinion page and Cross-Section: "Why Did Technologists Become Doomers?" (Allysia Finley), "Stop Counting Calories—There's More to Weight Loss" (Dariush Mozaffarian), "What Is Trumponomics?" (James Freeman), "Tariffs Are Hurting the GOP in Michigan", "John Sununu Wants to Save Social Security", "Democrats Have No School Choice Excuse", "Spain's Snap Election Is a Chance to Reject Pedro Sánchez", "Marco Rubio Gets to the Heart of the Matter", "Celebrating Hamas on Oct. 7", "The Jewish Way of Grieving", "Politics Starts With Growing Up", "Marco Rubio: The Birth and Rebirth of Western Civilization", "Pouring Money Into the Ivy League Won't Solve Its Problems", "Let Physics Regulate the AI Industry", "India's Best Bet to Catch Up With China? Democracy", "Republicans Find a New Way to Lose: Attacking Asians", "Hollywood, Ignore Hollywood", "Will Obama Repeat His Most Infamous Promise?", "'A Campus Tilted Blue'", "Democrats Don't Believe the Polls", "The Chinese Communist Party's Tactics to Weaken the U.S.", "Bo French's Rhetoric Misrepresents the GOP", "The Heroes Who Restored the American Bison", "Climate Action Delivers Real Economic Benefits for Cities", "Parents Matter in Education", "The Real Transmission Bottlenecks Are Federal", "Federal Tax Credits Offer True School Choice", "Rhetoric Is an AI-Proof Skill in the Job Market", "Preventing Hazing Requires Institutional Transformation", "Tennessee's Executioners Had One Job" (Matthew Hennessey), "New York's Parole Rules Let Career Criminals Roam Free" (Edward Conlon), "Oct. 7 Is Still Testing Us" (Matthew Continetti) and "Texting for Dollars: Kimberly Guilfoyle Offers Access to Trump" (Demetria Gallegos).

Consolidated Prediction Table

Predictions 1–5 restate the five calibrated views embedded in Clusters 1–3.

#	Prediction	Probability	Implied odds	Timeframe	Rationale
1	No direct U.S. strike on Iran	72%	1.39	By Nov. 3, 2026 midterms	Trump's Hormuz priority framed as keeping a lid on conflicts until after the vote
2	At least one further Houthi attack on Saudi infrastructure	65%	1.54	Within 30 days	Riyadh airport strike killed at least 12; Saudi air-link campaign described as escalating
3	Higher-for-longer consensus persists at next WSJ quarterly survey	78%	1.28	~90 days	Inflation, further Fed increases and debt cited as still in place
4	At least one major U.S. carrier references the SpaceX spectrum threat on its next earnings call	80%	1.25	~90 days	Single-session repricing of TMUS -13.27%, T -9.81%, VZ -8.75% with no earnings miss
5	At least two further large AI-compute partnership announcements	65%	1.54	Within 90 days	Compute scarcity forcing rivals into alliances of necessity

Confirmations

Predictions 1–5 above restate the five calibrated views embedded in Clusters 1–3. Every phrase in quotation marks in this briefing is either a literal WSJ headline rendered in bold, or is attributed in the same sentence to the named journalist, columnist or editorial board appearing in wsj_stories.md, or to a named subject or executive quoted in a lede; no quotation is invented. Where only a headline, standfirst or lede existed, the story is paraphrased and the byline surname cited where one exists. Coverage spans the 136 unique titles in wsj_stories.md, with headline-only and lifestyle items grouped under each cluster's rail subsection. Story entries appearing in more than one WSJ section are cited once per cluster.

Market data note

Stock prices, S&P 500 leaders/laggards percentages, bond yields, and oil prices cited here are from WSJ Markets section data tables (CDP-extracted) for the most recent session, the close of Friday, October 9, 2026, 4:00 PM ET — not from paywalled article prose. Index closes: DJIA 51,654.95 (+423.31, +0.83%); S&P 500 7,811.54 (+46.18, +0.59%); Nasdaq 27,366.17 (+172.83, +0.64%); Russell 2000 2,806.98 (+12.85, +0.46%); DJ Total Market 76,901.75 (+470.41, +0.62%). S&P 500 leaders: Crown Castle (CCI) +15.60%; Moderna (MRNA) +14.21%; Humana (HUM) +11.56%; American Tower (AMT) +9.30%; SBA Communications (SBAC) +7.34%. Laggards: T-Mobile (TMUS) -13.27%; AT&T (T) -9.81%; Verizon (VZ) -8.75%; HP (HPQ) -6.91%; Charter (CHTR) -5.74%.

观察者评论

翟东升——体系/结构视角

翟东升观察：2026年10月11日

胡塞导弹打进利雅得机场致12人死亡，霍尔木兹再度告急；同一天，特朗普要求乌克兰停打俄炼厂并更换泽连斯基。多数人看到的是中东乱局与俄乌消耗。底层逻辑不是：美国的安保信用正在物理性贬值。盟主提供的安全担保本是一份隐性期权，如今沙特买不到领空安全、基辅买不到持久承诺，北欧人的答案自然清楚——自保、抱团、系统内"去美国化"。这不是战术失误，是霸权产权基础的钙化。

金融市场是主权变迁的滞后指标，今天却在提前定价。SpaceX频谱交易一夜抹去三大运营商8%到13%的市值，铁塔REITs却暴涨——国家让渡频谱主权给私人资本，运营商沦为管道。同日WSJ调查确认higher-for-longer成共识，罗素2000连跌五周，美元连涨四周。底层逻辑是债务的物理天花板：Fed想加息压通胀，偿债成本不允许；想放水救小盘股，通胀不允许。这是结构性两难，不是政策选择。11月5日库克听证会公开处刑Fed独立性，贝森特把曾遭否决的谢尔顿请进财政部——货币的裁判席正被政治接管，而主权信用货币的信用恰恰来自这份独立性。

民本主义视角更冷：指数年金悄然托起私人信贷，AI算力紧缺把对手逼成盟友，可Fed研究显示中位净值仅涨2%，财富膨胀尽归富裕阶层。技术红利与金融红利都进了资本口袋，普通人的购买力被高利率与通胀双杀——这是分配的失败，不是增长的问题。

Geely绕开华盛顿进军加拿大，法国"魔法货币"酿成债务炸弹，平行体系的拼图正自我组装。多数国家会两头下注，但美元体系正被自己的武器化操作挖空根基。当规则被当成武器，规则的信用就归零。

金灿荣——美国政治/战略相持视角

金灿荣观察：2026年10月11日

各位朋友，今天聊一聊WSJ的头版。你们记不记得，我总说美国人现在很焦虑。

第一件事，胡塞的导弹打到了利雅得国际机场，死了十几个人，沙特这个"铁杆盟友"的空中大门被人一脚踹开。为什么美国拦不住？这个事情其实很简单——老板正忙着掀自己家的桌子，哪有功夫管门外的客人。你们看，特朗普一边逼乌克兰别炸俄罗斯炼油厂，一边又让人家把总统换掉；盟友心里都清楚了：这个老板开出的条件，今天一个价，明天又是一个价。北欧人已经开始自己攒家底，讲"超越美国"了。

第二件事，美国内部。司法部去查电视台，白宫给美联储理事定听证日期，小盘股连跌五周，老百姓的信心往下掉。一个饭店老板，菜还没炒好就先跟伙计打起来，客人早跑光了。

第三件事，AI。算力不够，死对头变成合伙人；模型还会跑去警局报假案。诺南写"奥特曼不是奥本海默"——说白了，机器没造明白，规矩也没立起来。美国擅长发明，可把发明变成产品、变成钱，这条路它现在走得磕磕绊绊。再看一条小新闻：吉利要到加拿大去，软件禁令拦不住；一个西方消费巨头在中国靠社交媒体，连赚十二个季度。为什么？因为工厂在转，市场还在动。

我的结论还是老话：百年变局，比的是谁的工厂在转、谁的饭碗端得稳。美国忙着内斗，这就是战略相持，东升西降不是口号，是账本上算出来的。中国要做的，就是把自己的事情做好。

宋鸿兵——货币/债务/周期视角

宋鸿兵观察：2026年10月11日

今天WSJ的季调调查给出一个明确信号：经济学家一致认为高债息将长期存在——通胀、加息、债务三者互为因果。如果你把美元环流看成一个系统，它的核心问题就清楚了：这条回路的动力来自美国财政的持续扩张，而阀门正被债务本身一点点卡死。收益率高悬不下，不是市场情绪，而是系统压力。

美元完成四周连涨，表面是强势，实则是全球美元回流在收紧——资金被抽回本土，外围经济体承受的是流动性抽干。罗素2000连续五周下跌，正是这个高压下最灵敏的压力表：小盘股依赖再融资，利率一升，最先爆的就是它们。

指数年金这个不起眼的保险产品，竟撑起了私募信贷的扩张。这让我想起十九世纪的上海白银——流动性总藏在最不透明的地方。美联储自己的研究承认：2022到2025年，富裕阶层的财富大幅增长，而中位净值只涨了2%。货币发行的红利，从来只流向金融高边疆的守军。

华盛顿对美联储的施压——11月5日库克听证、贝森特聘用谢尔顿——本质是争夺货币发行权。只要控制一个国家的货币发行，就不必在乎谁制定法律。

中东的霍尔木兹、法国的债务炸弹、北欧"超越美国"式的重新武装，是同一个系统的不同节点。当美元环流的信任被债务侵蚀，平行体系就会自行生长。物以稀为贵，乃是投资的天道——黄金与白银，是这场货币战争中最后的锚。

Consolidated briefing with Observer commentaries. Version 3. October 11, 2026.